

Hitler has eight potential routes of supply to bolster his rapidly retreating armies in Italy, but he is getting plenty of interference on two of the most important of these. Allied warplanes are bombing the rail and road link south of the Brenner Pass, while Yugoslav partisan armies are hitting the Nazis in the northeast corner of Italy. Map shows the eight routes through the mountains between Germany, and Italy—routes that may eventually be used for escape by Nazi armies.

Air Armadas Smash Brenner Pass Rail City, Nazi Airports

Allied Armies Advance in Ground Fighting in Italy Today

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Oct. 5—(AP)—Powerful north-west African armadas—some flying from Italian bases—in a thundering two-pronged attack hammered Nazi airfields in Greece and blocked the German reinforcement road into Italy by smashing bridges in the Brenner Pass rail city of Bolzano, it was announced today.

On the land in Italy, American troops crossed the Calore river, drove nine miles southwest of Benevento yesterday to seize Montesarchio on the lateral road to Naples. Reinforcements were poured into British-held Termoli on the Adriatic.

Two of the most important airfields in southern Italy—Pomigliano and Capodichino—have been captured by the Fifth Army in its drive north of Naples, headquarters announced. Pomigliano is about eight miles northeast of Naples.

Naples' big airport of Capodichino, just north of the city, was attacked repeatedly in the long series of pre-invasion raids.

Eighth Army troops have pushed more than 10 miles north of Termoli and now stands but 40 miles from Pescara, it was announced. Pescara is at the Adriatic end of the main lateral road running eastward from Rome.

Four to five German divisions along a line from coast to coast in Italy are putting up increased resistance to the Fifth and Eighth Army advances, it was stated officially.

Support Defense of Coo

Liberators and Mitchells pounded at air bases in Greece, supporting the British defense of Coo in the Dodecanese, with the Mitchells making the attack from new bases in Italy itself. It was the first attack on Greece from this theater.

Corsica has been evacuated, Berlin announced, giving the allies a great new air base and potential springboard of southern France or northern Italy.

The Brenner Pass feed line from Germany was again blocked by Flying Fortresses that destroyed railroad yards and bridges at Bolzano over the Isarco river.

The double blows on Italy and Greece were a new indication of the strength of the Northwest African air force, now able to lunge out to take German pressure off Coo in the Middle East.

American Liberators newly-arrived from the Middle East bombarded the Menidi airfields north of Athens in mighty blows to defend invaded Coo, while Mitchells

School Bus, Dynamite Truck Collide; Report Three Children Dead

Vicksburg, Miss., Oct. 5—(AP)—Three children were reported killed and several others seriously injured in the collision today of a school bus and a dynamite-laden truck.

Investigating authorities said the vehicles apparently crashed head-on between Fittler and Onward. The bus was en route to a school at Cary.

The dynamite truck turned upside down and the crew released explosives as ambulances moved the injured to Vicksburg hospitals.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Nature at her best generally can beat man at his worst, and the autumn deluge finally has produced almost impassable seas of mud which have brought the fighting on the Russo-German front to a near standstill in many sectors of the thousand-mile line.

This was to be expected, however, and from now until the ground freezes in mid-November much of the eastern front will be a morass. There will be fighting, probably some very fierce, but a general lull is in order—a Godsend to the fighting men on both sides who for months have been under a strain almost beyond human endurance.

This slackening off in the fighting will give both sides a chance to pull up their stocks. Already the Russians appear to be getting set for a big winter offensive which will capitalize the sensational gains of the summer.

Reflecting the possibility of another huge offensive, the Moscow newspaper Pravda describes a fighter plane factory where production has more than doubled in a year—without additional equipment and with five per cent fewer workmen. One of the planes produced at this plant is a new wood-en-fuselage fighter which is regarded as among the Soviet's best warplanes.

While we are on the subject of offensives and warplanes, I've been asked to explain why it is that the Nazis haven't been bombing Moscow and other Russian cities well behind the fighting front, and why the Reds haven't been attacking German cities like Berlin.

Well, there are several reasons. Foremost we must place the fact that the fighting which has been raging along the Russian front since last winter has day by day been producing some of the most terrific air battles of the war. To give a single example at random, on May 17 of this year Moscow announced that the Red Air force had destroyed 1,300 Nazi planes in two weeks. The Russian casualties weren't given. The losses in men and machines for many

Federal Sales Tax of Ten Per Cent is Proposed to House

Sub for Treasury Tax Plan Offered; News of Today in Capital

Washington, Oct. 5—(AP)—A ten per cent "victory" retail sales tax estimated to yield $6,000,000,000, was proposed to Congress today by M. L. Seidman, chairman of the tax committee of the New York Board of Trade.

Seidman appeared before the house ways and means committee after the treasury's proposal for $10,500,000,000 in additional income and excise levies appeared to have been virtually scrapped by adverse congressional reaction.

Representative Taber (R-N.Y.), ranking Republican on the house appropriations committee, and Senator Byrd (D-Va.), member of the senate finance committee, previously had suggested a federal sales tax in public statements.

Seidman apparently offered his sales tax plan as a substitute for the treasury proposal. He also suggested a method for channeling more money into the treasury by offering a tax incentive for bond buying. Under this plan, he said, taxpayers would "benefit taxwise in proportion to their bond purchases, through a deduction from taxable income in terms of a percentage of bonds bought".

Frankfort Gets Its 38th Bomb Shower

London, Oct. 5—(AP)—Roaring over the blasted German city of Frankfurt less than 12 hours after American Flying Fortresses delivered a precision blow there, RAF heavy bombers last night dumped another load upon that war production center while a smaller fleet of night bombers struck Ludwigshafen.

The Germans could scarcely have had time to put out the fires and reorganize their defenses after the American daylight attack on the important Frankfurt warplane factory when the RAF returned to the scene and gave the city its 38th battering of the war, and the fourth major British blow in as many nights.

The great bomber fleet ranged over much of the Rhineland during the night delivering the main attack on Frankfurt—exceeding 500 tons—and a force of Lancasters made a subordinate raid on Ludwigshafen which, with its twin city of Mannheim across the river, has been blasted 59 times previously.

From all of these operations,

Shocking Tale of Barbarity

Turkey is Believed About Ready to Join Allies Against Axis

Diplomats Boldly Assert Former Friend of Germany May Act Soon

Washington, Oct. 5—(AP)—Turkey, staunch friend of the Kaiser's Germany but a diplomatic question mark in this war, supplied the United Nations today with their latest—and perhaps most exciting—weapon in the battle of nerves aimed at Hitler's besieged European fortress.

Diplomats once exceedingly wary of even discussing Turkey's role in international affairs boldly assert now that this key country is completely out of sympathy with the reich and will enter the war on the allies' side when the time is right.

This qualification of timing appeared to hinge on the weather. Turkey is an open door to the Balkans. A drive in that direction however, it was said, would not be feasible before spring. By that time, too, Turkey may have the complete assurance it needs that the allies can offer her adequate protection.

The diplomatic grapevine said that the Nazis have given up their hope of enticing Turkey into their orbit and hope now only to keep her out of the war.

Relations On Even Keel

Along with this information, high sources also dropped the thought that Turkey's relations with Russia, often pictured as strained, are on an even keel.

Russia's new ambassador to the United States, Andrei A. Gromyko, steered clear however of any references on that subject, as he talked with reporters after presenting his credentials to President Roosevelt yesterday.

Without specifically referring to 1, Russian demands for a second front, 2, rumors that a separate German-Russian peace may be negotiated, and 3, reports that the Russian people do not realize the extent of American lend-lease aid Gromyko cleared the air on all these questions.

Soviet Grateful

He expressed the "warm gratitude" of the Soviet government and peoples for American material support and said the "remarkable successes" of allied armies "created a favorable military-political situation for inflicting decisive blows" on the enemy.

Added to Gromyko's assurance of "full confidence" that his government's friendly relations with the United States would continue through and after the war was the authoritative statement that no separate peace talks had been held in Turkey, source of many rumors.

Gromyko did not mention Japan and referred to the enemy as "Hitlerite Germany and her allies in Europe".

He said however that he was confident of strengthening relations between the Soviet Union and the United States for the benefit and prosperity "of all friendly countries".

New Outbreaking of Violence in Europe

London, Oct. 5—(AP)—A new flareup of resistance by thousands of Frenchmen against their German conquerors and Pierre Laval's Nazi-directed government has brought a grim warning from the Vichy radio that France is on the verge of civil war.

The admonition was included in an appeal against sabotage broadcast shortly after announcement of the execution of 52 Frenchmen for "terrorist acts". The executions coincided with reports of the destruction of French patriots at Chalons-sur-Saone, Gernies and Le Creusot—all serving the German armament industry—with damage which the Vichy radio said was "comparable to the breaching of the Mahe and Eder dams" by the Royal Air Force.

The French flareup was accompanied by a warning to the Dutch by Arthur Seyss Inquart, German commissioner for the Netherlands, that if attacks against Dutch Nazis did not cease the Netherlands food supplies would be cut off. New outbreaks of sabotage also were reported in Rumania.

LOCAL WEATHER

For the 24 hours ending at 6:30 p. m. (Central War Time) Monday—maximum temperature 66, minimum 33; clear.

"Common Foes"

Washington, Oct. 5—(AP)—Asserting that newsreels to be shown in theaters tomorrow will record Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt classing "Japs and Republicans as common enemies", Representative Ploeser (R-Mo.) said today he would demand a congressional investigation of use of the motion picture industry for propaganda purposes.

The newsreel, Ploeser said, was made by the Marine Corps while the president's wife was in the South Pacific. The final scene, he said, shows her telling a story of a Marine who said he could not shoot into a group of Japs who shouted "to hell with Roosevelt," because the Marine did not want to shoot a fellow Republican.

The Missouriian also contended a motion picture company recently "went out of its way" to give the president credit for obtaining pay increases for service men "when actually administration lobbyists fought the legislation".

Russian Offensive Slowing; Germans' Resistance Mounts

Moscow, Oct. 5—(AP)—Battling against rain and greatly stiffened German resistance, the Red army shouldered the burden today of solving the Nazis' growing counter-attacks over the long front.

Despite road conditions in White Russia and northward and the strengthened fighting of the Germans, the Red army made some progress, capturing three settlements in the Vitebsk direction and improving its position in the Gomel and Mogilev areas.

It was the first day in three months, however, in which the communiques used the phrase "local battles" to describe the operations.

(The Germans reported, however, a resumption of large-scale Soviet attacks in the Kuban bridgehead in the Caucasus and the eruption of "violent fighting" at the mouth of the Pripiet river and west of Smolensk.)

Nazis Claim Successes

(The German communique asserted that Soviet attempts at a break-through in the Kuban were thwarted and that "enemy local attacks" at several points of the northern sector of the eastern front were "frustrated".)

Soviet army newspaper, Red Star, in a leading editorial took cognizance of the German counter-attacks, saying, "the repulse of these counter-attacks is one of the most necessary undertakings for furthering our successful offensive."

Red Star said the German attacks were especially aimed at the bases of large wedges which the Russians have driven into the enemy's front.

The army organ did not specify where the big German counter-attacks were coming from but it can be assumed that they are taking place throughout the entire central front, in White Russia, in the bridgehead which the Germans hold on the Kuban peninsula in the Caucasus and in the sector southeast of Zaporozhe at the southern end of the Dnieper river.

Japs' Evacuation of Solomons is Hell of Shell, Black Water

Whole Flotillas of Nip Barges Destroyed U. S. Naval Command

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Oct. 5—(AP)—Retreat from the central Solomons has become a hell of cannon fire and black water for the Japanese.

For more than a month the self-powered steel and wooden barges with which the enemy is seeking to remove from nearly encircled Kolombangara island a garrison once estimated at 10,000 men have been hunted down relentlessly by American patrol planes and torpedo boats. During September more than 100 were blasted from the water or wrecked ashore at their hideout landing spots.

Now, as the attempted evacuation reaches its height, destroyers of Adm. William F. Halsey's South Pacific naval command have moved onto the scene. On the night of Oct. 1-2 and again the following night Halsey's force intercepted whole flotillas of barges in Vella Gulf northwest of Kolombangara—the very waters where at least two Japanese cruisers and four destroyers were sent to the bottom in air and naval actions last summer.

Many Barges Sunk

More than 40 of the barges were sunk or shattered, a communique disclosed today. Unaccounted scores—perhaps hundreds—of Japanese soldiers were killed or wounded or cast helplessly into the dark sea.

(At Admiral Halsey's headquarters, a spokesman left no doubt that the attempted withdrawal from Kolombangara meant the Japanese fully intend to abandon their last holdings in the central Solomons.)

Japanese bombers scored a near miss on one of the American vessels, a headquarters spokesman reported, causing some damage to the ship and light casualties among its crew.

The only ground activity on the broad Southwest Pacific front was reported from allied troops moving northward along the Ramu river in interior New Guinea to envelop the Japanese along

Predicts Critical Shortage of Beef

Chicago, Oct. 5—(AP)—A livestock industry leader said today that a "critical" beef shortage is in the making, threatening to be "more acute" than it was last spring.

He said that the number of feeder cattle shipped into the corn belt states from the western ranges in the last three months was 31 per cent fewer than for the same period a year ago.

Unless there is a "very decided" increase in feeder cattle during the next three months, the outlook for finished beef early next year will be "slim", said George A. Schmidt, chairman of the board of directors of the American Meat Institute.

In an address prepared for delivery at the annual business meeting of the institute, comprising the industry's major packers, Schmidt said the solution must be found "outside the realms of the livestock and meat industry".

The industry, he said, was aware of some of the "minor contributing factors which cause this critical condition". But, he added, governmental agencies must "remove the uncertainty which encompasses present unsatisfactory cattle feeding returns to those who have a large stake in an important segment of livestock production. Livestock raisers are also disturbed because of a threatened imposition of price ceilings on cattle".

Resigns

Announcement was made today of the resignation of Clyde H. Lenox (above) as cashier at the City National bank. He has accepted a position as a state bank examiner and has taken over the duties in which he had several years experience before becoming affiliated with the bank force. Frank Fordham has accepted the position vacated by Cashier Lenox, who is Past Commander of Dixon post, No. 12, American Legion and is at present commissioner of the department of public health and safety in the city council.

Supreme Court Is Asked to Clarify Sales Tax Ruling

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 5—(AP)—Arnold L. Lund, Chicago attorney, has petitioned the Illinois Supreme Court for a rehearing and "clarification" of its recent decision on collecting the state 2 per cent retailers' occupation (sales) tax, asserting that "great confusion has arisen concerning its real meaning and purport".

The court, on Sept. 21, upheld Leslie M. Moysey of Berwyn in his refusal to pay $8.56 representing sales tax charges added to the purchase price of merchandise bought from the People's Drug Shop, Inc., of Berwyn.

The sole question before it, the court ruled, was whether a retailer "may collect from the consumer the retailers' occupation tax when added, as here, as a separate and distinct charge to the agreed price of merchandise sold".

The decision added that Moysey "neither expressly nor impliedly agreed to pay the tax added", and upheld him in his refusal to pay. The opinion, however, did not discuss the widely-used procedure whereby retailers add 2 per cent to retail prices as an "added expense" because of the tax.

Lund, Moysey's attorney, in his rehearing petition declared the court had quoted from a previous decision "that those engaged in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail have contrived to pass this tax on to the consumer, was neither the intent of the general assembly nor within the purpose of the act, as shown by its terms".

Matters "Overlooked"

He summed up his petition by

Absenteeism

Chicago, Oct. 5—(AP)—The war effort lost 270 million days of work, enough to build 63,000 fighter planes, in 1942 because of accidents, most of them off-the-job, the National Safety Council today told today by C. C. Carlton, Lansing, Mich., vice chairman of the Automotive Safety Foundation.

The on-the-job accident rate has been reduced, he said, with occupational deaths for the first seven months of 1943 decreased 400 to 10,400 from the same period of 1942.

Meantime, the common cold remains the major cause of seasonal absenteeism in industry. Dr. Harold Earhart, Chicago, medical director for Swift & Company, told the Safety Council.

Beheading of Young American Revealed by Japanese Diary

MacArthur's Men Will Never Forget Names Komai, Tsukioka

Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Oct. 5—(AP)—Komai and Tsukioka: These are names that won't be forgotten by the men who fly for General Douglas MacArthur.

Komai and Tsukioka were the Japanese officers responsible for the beheading of a young American airman according to the "Samurai code" of the Japanese, the code of feudal warriors.

The shocking execution came to light in the diary of a captured Japanese soldier who had to admit in his bloody recital that the American was "more composed than I thought he would be."

(The execution was the first such violation of international law reported since last April when it was announced that the Japanese had executed several American fliers captured in the bombing of Japan a year before.)

The diary, dated March 29, said the airman was 23 years of age, an instructor in the transport command at Port Moresby, New Guinea, and was a member of a bomber crew shot down near Salamaua by anti-aircraft fire on March 18.

Verbatim Translations

Verbatim translations from the diary as released by MacArthur headquarters included the following:

"Tai Commander (sub-lieutenant first class) Komai told us it had been decided to execute him and he was to be accorded a Samurai's death."

"The prisoner of war totters forward with his arms tied. His hair is cut close. . . . I feel he suspects what is afoot, but he is more composed than I thought he would be. . . ."

"At the execution ground, Lieutenant Komai faces the prisoner and says: 'You are to die. I am going to kill you with this Japanese sword according to the Samurai code.'"

"The prisoner is made to sit on the edge of a water-filled bomb crater. When I put myself in his place, the rate engendered by this daily bombing yields to ordinary human feelings."

"Head Like White Doll"

"The Tai commander draws his favorite sword, the famous 'osamune.' First he touches the prisoner's neck lightly with the sword. Then he raises it overhead. His arm muscles bulge. The prisoner closes his eyes for a second, and at once the sword sweeps down."

"Swish. It sounds at first like noise of cutting, but it is actually made by blood spurting from arteries. The body falls forward. Everybody steps forward as the head rolls on the ground."

"Dark blood gushed from the trunk. All is over. There lies the head like a white doll."

"I realize that the emotions I felt just now was not personal pity but manifestation of magnanimity that becomes a chivalrous samurai."

Then, the diary continued, a medical man took the sword, rolled the American airman's body over on his back and slit the abdomen open with one sweep, commenting, "These thick-headed white bastards are thick bellied, too."

The body was then buried.

WILL HAVE ANSWER

Washington, Oct. 5—(AP)—Responsible Japanese officials will have to answer at the end of the war for the summary beheading of an American Air Transport Command aviator near Salamaua, New Guinea.

This was made clear today by the state department following MacArthur's headquarters in the Southwest Pacific of a captured Japanese diary which described the execution of the American

Flying Fortresses to Lead With Chins

Los Angeles, Oct. 5—(AP)—The Flying Fortress is going to lead with its chin—and the enemy is not expected to like it.

A chin turret equipped with two .50 caliber guns is being installed just below the bombardier's station on Fortresses to aid in fighting off frontal attacks, Vega Aircraft Corp. has announced. The turret is power operated and remote controlled.

Heretofore the Fortress nose was protected only by three swivel guns.

Dixon and Polo Men Indicted Monday Afternoon by Whiteside Grand Jury

Four indictments against five defendants—one from Polo and three from Dixon—were returned by the Whiteside county grand jury Monday afternoon.

Harold Fredericks, Polo, and Melvin Pilgrim, Milledgeville, are charged with forgery in one true bill, and another names Fredericks individually on a charge of forgery. Robert Heckman, Wayne Jenkins, Raymond Huggins, all of Dixon, were indicted on charges of burglary and larceny.

Arraigned before Judge Scheine-

A 300-acre state park on the east bank of the Rock river near the Sinissippi farm of the late Frank O. Lowden today had the endorsement of the state commission as a memorial to the World War governor. Civilians will be asked to raise an estimated $30,000 required in addition to the $25,000 appropriated by the legislature.

The tract was formerly the Eagle's Nest artist colony and is the site of Lorado Taft's famous statue of Black Hawk overlooking the river. A home on the property would be used to house Lowden mementoes.

Gov. Dwight H. Green is chairman of the Lowden Memorial commission which approved the proposal at the Union League club yesterday. Other members are Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, John A. Holabird, Chicago architect; Gerald Poley, Oregon, Ill., banker and close friend of Lowden, and Rep. James M. White (R., Ore.) sponsor of the legislation providing for the memorial.

High School Training Test

The second qualifying test for the Army Specialized Training program and the Navy college program V-12 which will be given throughout the country on Tuesday, Nov. 9, will be administered at the Paw Paw community high school, Supt. John French announced Thursday. A pamphlet of general information which contains an admission identification form may be obtained at the school office. This form properly filled out will admit to the test students between the ages of 17 and 21 inclusive who are recent high school graduates, or who will be graduated by March 1, 1944. Intent to take the test should be made known immediately to Mr. French in order that the necessary test simplified may be ordered.

The same examination will be taken by both Army and Navy candidates. The examination is designed to test the aptitude and general knowledge required for the program of college training and all qualified students are urged to take the test. At the time of the test each candidate will be given a choice of service preference, but taking the test does not obligate the candidate to enlist in the service.

The Army Specialized Training program and the Navy college program enable students to continue academic training at government expense following induction into the armed forces. Successful completion of the prescribed course, may, following further officer lead to a commission in the Army or Navy.

Those selected for the Army, will after further screening and basic military training, be sent to college. Students chosen for the Navy program after selection by the office of Naval officer procurement, will be detailed directly to college. Students who attend either of the programs will be under military discipline on active duty in uniform with pay. All expenses, including uniform, food, housing, books, and uniforms will be paid by the Army or Navy.

Birthday Party
Mrs. Lester Erlenbach entertained the members of the G. G. G. class of the Baptist church, and other friends and relatives at her home Wednesday afternoon for a surprise birthday party in honor of Mrs. John Fife. A very delicious birthday dinner was served and following the dinner the afternoon was spent with the group visiting. The class members presented her with a lovely cake dish and she also was the recipient of many other gifts from her many friends present. Everyone reported a pleasant afternoon and all extended their best wishes to Mrs. Fife, and expressed their sincere hopes that she may celebrate many more such delightful occasions.

Those present for the birthday celebration were, Mrs. Raymond Strayman and son Eugene, Mrs. Frank Ambler, Mrs. Laura Bend, Mrs. Les Elliott, Mrs. Tom Owens, Mrs. John Poltsch, Mrs. Fannie Cropley, Mrs. Nellie Adrian, Mrs. Judith Vance, Mrs. Kenneth Bielby, Mrs. Alfred Bruse, Mrs. Delia Smith, Mrs. Ivan Urish, Mrs. Emma Stroyan, Mrs. Annie Merriam, Mrs. Harry Prentice, Mrs. Olive Shafte, Mrs. Forest Brewer, Mrs. Ben Keshum, Mrs. R. Soldiers Help Save Kenosha's Bean Crop

Waukegan, Ill., Oct. 5—(AP)—Soldiers from Fort Sheridan were credited with doing a good job last week in helping save the bean crop around Kenosha, Wis. The more than 500 soldiers are working for food processors and farmers in their spare time this week.

William J. Kelly of the United States Employment Office said the men were paid 71 cents an hour. Swift & Co., in Chicago has employed 200 men and Wilson & Co., about 100. Others are working for processors and farmers near Waukegan and Woodstock.

"Autumn Trees"

(By Edith Andrew Burchell)
Autumn trees remind me
Of little old ladies,
Dressed in gay colors of reds and brown.

The trembling leaves
Are like dainty hands
Holding lacy fans and bright bouquets.

Chill winds blow smoky rings
Around an autumn ladder.
Climbing high into October sky.
To a sailing cloud that seems
Like an old organ with its old musician playing.

The Rosary.

Steel Bins Not Used Are Offered for Sale

In order to make maximum use of steel bins, now owned by the Commodity Credit Corporation, for the storage of grain, County Agricultural Conservation Committees are authorized to sell to farmers or warehousemen the steel bins not now in use.

There are three sizes of bins in Lee county, the 544 bushel capacity, Martin bin the 2169 bushel capacity Butler and the 2730 bushel capacity Butler.

The 944 bushel bins sell for $150 each and are located at Walton and Harmon, the 2169 bushel bins sell for $300 and the 2730 bushel bins sell for $400. The two last sizes are located throughout the county. Information on the purchase of these bins can be secured at Lee County Agricultural Conservation office at Amboy.

Nation's Leading Soybean Storage Studies at U. Ill.

Construction of Seventy Bins to Start at University Soon

In keeping with the rising importance of soybeans as a food and feed crop, the most extensive soybean storage investigations in the United States are being launched at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, it is announced by Dean H. P. Rusk. Construction will start at once on about 70 bins to be used in the studies, which will serve as a basis for recommendations to prevent or reduce storage losses. In addition to furnishing most of the bins, the Commodity Credit Corporation will loan about 100,000 bushels of beans for use in the studies.

Prospects of a record-breaking 1943 crop of 75,250,000 bushels for Illinois and about 200 million bushels for the nation have spurred the studies of problems connected with storage.

Soybeans tend to lose grade and quality in storage, especially if high moisture levels are encountered or if the grain is damaged by unfavorable weather or freezing temperatures. Records of the 1942 crop indicate a rapid decline in market grade as the season advanced. Almost 90 percent of the October receipts were above sample grade, but by the following March, they had declined to 42 percent.

Problems to be studied include comparisons of wood and steel bins, methods of insect control, best size for bins, moisture movements inside the bins, value of natural ventilation, artificial drying or moisture reduction, designs for meeting strength requirements, methods of maintaining low moisture conditions, effect of storage on germination, fat acidity and market grade and

Nelson of the New Idea Manufacturing Company and Mr. Espeland of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company. Many questions vital to the interest of the farmers of this community will be discussed at the meeting. The Dixon One-Stop Service extend a cordial invitation to all farmers to attend. In addition to the speakers, pictures will be shown and refreshments will be served following the program.

recommended designs for farm storage bins.

Dean Project Leader

Dean G. Carter, chief in farm structures, will be project leader for the department of agricultural engineering and W. L. Burlison, head of the agronomy department, will supervise analysis of the quality of stored beans and determine germination, fat acidity and grade factors. M. D. Farrar, of the Illinois State Natural History Survey, is to be in charge of the insect infestation and control portion of the project.

Leo E. Holman, agricultural engineer, Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils and Agricultural Engineering, is being transferred from Ames, Iowa, to represent the U. S. Department of Agriculture and is expected to arrive in Urbana about October 1. An assistant agricultural engineer will be assigned to aid in the technical phase of the work.

"Illinois is the logical location for this new study," Dean Rusk said. "The College of Agriculture has a long record of pioneering work in soybean research and the state itself produces nearly half of the entire U. S. output for commercial purposes. Soybeans are vital in the wartime production of oil, feed and flour. We welcome the support of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in carrying on these studies."

"This new project is the outgrowth of agricultural experiments dealing with the storage of corn, wheat and soybeans," said E. W. Lehmann, head of the department of agricultural engineering. "Our work will now be centered largely on this one crop, in a manner similar to the extensive wheat storage work of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Kansas and North Dakota and the corn storage studies in Iowa. An experiment station project has already been operating for three years to obtain essential data on beans in storage. The board of trustees recently voted $18,000 to purchase soybeans for special tests."

Although the investigation involves the use of more than $200,000 worth of bins, soybeans and equipment, much of the cost will be recovered by the sale of beans at the end of each year's tests, so that the net cost will be very low. Recommendations resulting from the study that bring about even a slight reduction in storage losses will be worth millions of dollars to producers.

FRANK PRIEBE'S Weekly Letter - TO - POULTRY RAISERS

Poultry is becoming a political issue.

Mayor LaGuardia, who must have a cause, grabbed a chicken out of a butcher shop and started up and down the streets of New York telling people they were being robbed. Poultry dressers ripped the entrails out of chickens, he said, froze the birds and then charged outlandish prices for them.

Facts apparently mean little to the mayor.

When you draw a chicken, you lose about a fourth of the weight. So suppose a 4-pound stewing chicken sells for 40c a pound. That's $1.60. The same bird, eviscerated, weighs about 3 pounds. If it's sold for 55c a pound, that's only $1.65. People get the same amount of meat—and for that extra nickel they get a chicken that's clean and ready to put in the oven.

That arithmetic is simple enough for anyone to understand. The trouble is, people haven't stopped to figure.

The mayor and his followers have pointed their finger at people who have been eviscerating poultry and screamed "Thief!" and "Robber!"

Used as a Red Herring Eviscerated poultry has been dragged in front of the OPA like a red herring.

The Army has had trouble getting poultry. Wholesalers have been unable to get regular dressed poultry. And it's been easier

Field Meeting

Members of the agronomy department of the University of Illinois will be at the university's soil experimental field west of Dixon on the Lincoln highway Friday to report on the work of soil management and crop study. The university staff held a field meeting there last June which was poorly attended because the farm work in this vicinity was rushing at that time due to the late season.

Farmers of the community who are not acquainted with the work that the university is doing on the plot will find it profitable to attend Friday's meeting. Members of the agricultural classes of Dixon high school will attend.

to blame it on the price of eviscerated poultry than to admit that poultry price ceilings were not being enforced and that, instead of going to the Army and other legitimate buyers, the poultry was going to the black market.

Now the OPA, disregarding the facts and yielding to the people who made the most noise, has slashed the price of eviscerated poultry.

It was a grandstand play and it got headlines in all the papers: "Good News for Housewives!"

I doubt, however, if housewives—who have got so they like the idea of buying chicken ready to cook—will be so happy when they find they can't get it that way any more.

Plants Forced to Close

The OPA, by its action, has—in effect—locked the door of every poultry eviscerating plant in the country. Last week they were beehives of activity. This week they have no choice but to shut down.

There's no question that eviscerating poultry was the most progressive move the industry had made in twenty years. When people found they could buy poultry ready to cook, they bought more of it. We could see the demand growing to the point where you would eventually have a market for twice as many chickens as you used to raise.

But the OPA has put an end to all that.

If the action were necessary as a war measure, I wouldn't argue the point. But, for the life of me, I can't see how putting a stop to the production of a food product that saves time, labor, and transportation, is going to help win the war.

I think it is a purely political move that every poultry raiser in the country should protest!

A Thought for Today

Turn thou to thy God; keep mercy and judgment, and wait on thy God continually.—Hosea 12:6.

If what must be given is given willingly, the kindness is doubled.—Syrius.

Fulbright Steam Roller

Congressman Everett M. Dirksen of the Sixteenth Illinois district issues a few well-written paragraphs occasionally, labeling them the Congressional Front. In his most recent contribution he discusses the methods by means of which the Fulbright resolution was jammed through the house.

At first it was proposed to have the house consider it under what is sometimes called "gag rule," but more musically styled "suspension of the rules." Under this system of considering a legislative matter, debate is limited to forty minutes—twenty each for the pros and cons. Under this suspension of rules, also, there is no right for a member to offer an amendment. Finally the proponents conceded four hours of debate, but otherwise the rules were suspended.

In this connection, Mr. Dirksen made a speech on the resolution, and when he got through, some other member was constrained to ask him what he means by the speech—whether he was going to vote for or against the Fulbright business. Mr. Dirksen said he was going to vote for it—and we suppose he did.

One amendment was tacked onto the resolution, but it happened in committee. In this amendment the house was permitted to restrict adherence to the world's future peace-preserving machinery to constitutional processes.

This, added to the vagueness of the resolution itself, was the final joke. The members pledged themselves to stay within the Constitution—although they must have known that failure to do so would disqualify them morally as members of congress.

The theory is that only congress can declare war. However, it is possible for an executive to put the country into a state of war without a declaration of congress. He can order the navy to take punitive action against another navy or against an aggressor, and finally bring on such a state of affairs that congress would have no choice but to provide funds in order to prevent a military defeat and invasion.

For years there has been kicking around in congress a proposed constitutional amendment which would require a public referendum before war can be declared. If they had tacked that sentiment onto the Fulbright resolution, in the name of democracy, there would have been a topic for discussion.

Canadians in Uniform

It was unfortunate that word about Canada's intention to disband some of her home protection units had reached the United States just when we were all upset about the father draft. Under such circumstances it may have been inevitable that some protagonists should have misunderstood what is happening in Canada.

The Dominion is not reducing her armed forces destined for overseas duty. On the contrary, she is acting to expand them at the expense of the home guard. The mixup arises, perhaps, because not all Americans understand how the Canadian forces are raised.

Up to now Canada has produced, out of a population of about 11,500,000, some 700,000 men for overseas duty. These all are volunteers. No drafted men are available for service outside the continent.

Canada's 700,000-man volunteer army for overseas duty is as impressive, in view of her population, as though we had raised 8,400,000 volunteers on this side of the border. We haven't done that. We haven't raised that many soldiers by all methods, and we do not propose to do so. Considering other services, we just about match Canada's contribution.

The disbanding that created so much interest was of drafted home defense units. Two divisions are affected. The purpose is to free these men for two purposes which now, with the axis definitely on the defensive, appear more important than home defense. Some will be induced, by application of gentle pressure, to enlist for overseas service. The rest will be put into war production.

These home defense units never have been very stable affairs. Their personnel has changed rapidly, as their members felt the urge to get into actual fighting. With all the scores of thousands who have been called for induction, it never has been found possible to keep the home defense outfits filled up because so many, faced with the necessity for donning uniforms, have decided they would rather get into the real war.

Canada's disbanding of these two divisions has nothing to do with our own argument over the drafting of fathers. It's up to us to stand on our own feet, in that controversy, and decide for ourselves whether 5,700,000 men in the United States do or do not constitute adequate backing for 2,900,000 men abroad.

Racial Discrimination

Twenty-two railroads and 15 labor unions are on trial before the president's new committee on fair employment practices on charges that they discriminate against Negroes.

The Southern Railroad, operating in the southeast, states the problem clearly and realistically in its reply brief. It has never employed a Negro locomotive engineer because that would have been "bitterly resented" by its clientele.

The fact is as the railroad states, "Such problems," the railroads' joint reply remarks, "cannot be solved overnight by a stroke of the pen." Nor can the railroads, which must earn money in order to survive, be expected to defy the sentiment of the areas in which they operate. The long-run approach must be through education, social evolution, civic reform.

Not at Any Cost

An Automobile Workers' Union official is quoted as saying that "the policy of the union is not to win the war at any cost," but "to win the war without sacrificing too many of the rights which we maintain, or we have at the present time."

The official, President Thomas de Lorenzo of Local 365 U. A. W. (C. I. O.), is quoted further: "We do not propose to give anything up that we have at the present time under the contract. We propose instead that we keep adding to the contract."

Far be it from us to argue with Mr. de Lorenzo as to what he wants. We do not believe that his union constituents would be willing to stand up before witnesses and say after their present: "I don't want to win this war at any cost."

Pearl Harbor Trials

Apparently the Articles of War do not follow common law. If Admiral Kimmel and Major-General Short are not "arraigned" by Dec. 7, 1943, they cannot be tried for their alleged failings in connection with the disaster at Pearl Harbor.

But this still does not call for immediate public trial in which war secrets might be spread around and ammunition given to hecklers of the administration. There are at least two other possibilities. One is a trial now, in camera, which would be made public in full after the war. The other, which seems preferable, is to "arraign" the brass hats at once and then recess the trial until it can be held openly.

Trend of the Times: Even Mayor LaGuardia is peeved at the OPA.

Fair Enough by WESTBROOK PEGLER

A publicity release of the United States Maritime Commission announces that among other "illustrious names in labor history" assigned to new Liberty ships of the merchant marine is that of Arthur M. Huddell, late president of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Huddell died in Sibley hospital, Washington, D. C., on June 1, 1931. The coroner's report said a cerebral hemorrhage and pneumonia were the causes of his death which occurred 10 days after he had been struck over the heart by a bullet fired by an unidentified man while lunching at a restaurant near the headquarters of the racket. It would be incorrect to say that he was shot, for the bullet was stopped by a notebook in his pocket and did not enter his body. That the hemorrhage and pneumonia were caused by the shock of the shooting is a speculative possibility, but there is no question that Frank Langdon, the editor of the union's official publication, was shot in the head and lost an eye. Langdon nowadays refuses to discuss the shooting, saying "we want to let it die."

John Posselt, a vice president, who was lunching with Huddell and Langdon, was not hit and became president on Huddell's death and held the job until his death from natural causes in September, 1940. Then the mob rallied again and elected William E. Maloney, of Chicago, whose selfless altruism in the service of the working stiff and in the maintenance of labor's gains under the New Deal-Underworld-Communist axis has yielded him a stable of race horses, a villa in the wintering place of the criminal scum of unionism in Miami Beach and a large farm near Chicago. Posselt was Maloney's man in the presidency in a rivalry with Joe Fay, the New Jersey thug and oldtime bootlegger. In fact, Fay later was thrown out of the racket by Posselt, with Maloney's support, but subsequently made peace and is now not only an international vice president again but a contractor in a large way of business.

The police work in the Huddell case hardly could have been worse. The file in the Washington police department contains incomplete and unsigned data, including a statement attributed to the wife of one of the union officials in which she said her husband conspired in her presence to bump off Huddell so that another member of the mob could get his job. In the end nobody was punished or even tried and the union became even more aggressively a racket of racketeers which, during the long depression thrived on public make-work projects and, since the war began, and shaken down workers and contractors and al-ways, in the end, the people of the United States, who eventually pay the costs, in all sections of the country.

Although on the surface of things, Huddell might appear to have been a martyr, the attempt to beatify him today could be seriously embarrassed by any fairly alert devil's advocate, for the union was a racket when and there were plots and counter-plots of shooting and some of the members in Washington complained that favorites of the union bosses received preferred treatment in the division of the available work. One statement in the files, taken in connection with another plot not long after Huddell's death, quotes a working stiff as saying that "they had starved him long enough and caused one of his children to die from undernourishment." This man was arrested and indicted but died in jail before he could be brought to trial.

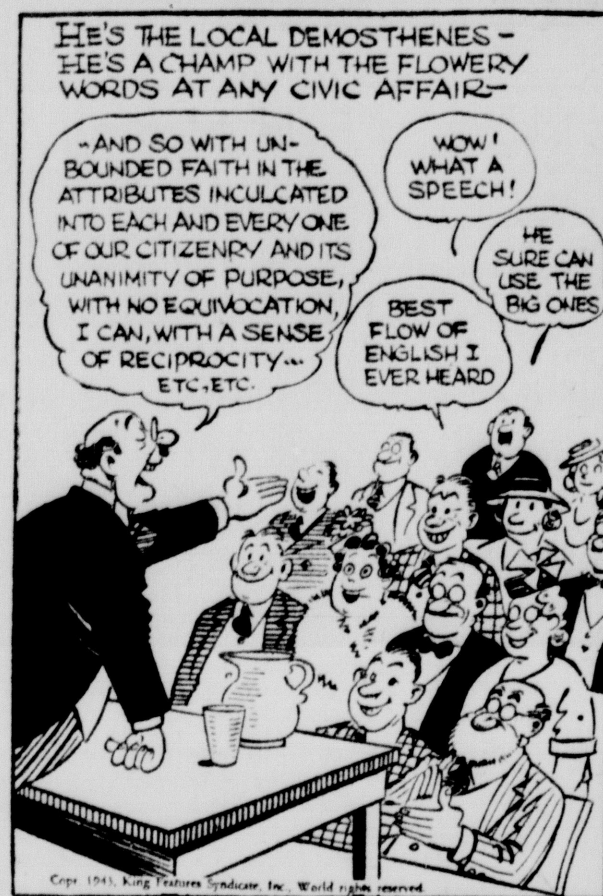

The christening of the S. S. Arthur M. Huddell, naturally, will be made an important occasion by his successors, particularly by Brother Maloney, who is a prominent member of Ed Kelly's Chicago chapter of the party of humanity, and Brother Fay, who is very influential in the Frank Hague chapter in New Jersey and in Washington, as well.

It might be more fitting to name a ship after Dennis Bruce Zeigler, of Chicago, who was murdered near his home on Feb. 14, 1933, after a long fight against Brother Maloney for clean unionism and after he had given information to the United States treasury concerning the income of certain of the Chicago racketeers.

The murder occurred about 24 hours after Zeigler reported to an agent of the government that two union officials, including one of those against whom he had given information to the treasury, had chased him through the streets and that one of them had yelled, "I will kill you yet."

However, William Green, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and a strong and admiring supporter of Brother Maloney, had repudiated Zeigler as an enemy of labor for appealing to him for help against Maloney's mob. Thus to name a ship for this genuine labor martyr would be an implied criticism of Brothers Green and Maloney and a disavowal of racketeering generally and so, on the whole, impolitic at this time.

News BEHIND THE NEWS By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington—The senators returning from their world-wide and South Pacific tours are saying more in private than in public to emphasize their demand for determined self-interested American war and post-war policies.

On the battlefield they rubbed elbows with the men who fight, and they saw war for the first time from a realistic standpoint not possible from their pontifical seats in the senate.

Some of their critics have tried to say that they are anti-British. They are not, in any non-propagandistic sense of that word. They merely saw with a soldier's eyes that the British had excellent diplomatic, commercial and propaganda systems working throughout the world, not promoting any other interest than those of the British empire in consonance, of course, with the allied war purposes.

They noted, for instance, that the British Eighth Army has received much more publicity than the American Fifth Army. They saw a British oil refinery in Asia Minor running at only 40 per cent capacity while the Americans were required to build a new refinery. They saw the British have control of cables and most other facilities around the world, while we have few or none. They saw many other things like these which cannot be related.

The precise distinction which they made in their minds is the same being made by our Army and Navy officials generally in their relations with the British, Russians, Chinese, Australians and others. Their officers and men are our allies and we fight well with them, perhaps closer than any other two nations ever fought in history, but each watches out for its own interests.

Civilian employees in the government diplomatic corps and elsewhere seldom have worked on this basis. Generally, they have been either too weak-kneed or glib. They think no one could say or do anything realistic about the British or Russians without being anti-British or anti-Russian, although it is obvious the British and Russians do not have that attitude toward us.

For instance, not much is said about the help that Russia could give us by granting bases for use against Japan, but much about our failure to help Russia enough.

Such an idea of protecting American interests erroneously has been thought to be isolationist, and, indeed, some criticism of the returning senators has taken that slant. But the group was not made up by isolationists. Indeed, one of the members was such a strong administration new deal and internationalist as Russell of Georgia, who has been accused of being pro-British in the past.

The weight of these opinions (incidentally along the line hewed for weeks and months past by this column, in fact, since the beginning of this war) will be felt not only in congress but probably throughout the government.

The senators, for instance, became interested in the value of island bases around the world, both from commercial and military aviation standpoints. The dots on the South Pacific will assume importance in the future as world comparable to their military value today. Practically all of these, of course, are in the hands of either the British or Japanese.

And, for another thing, this new senatorial viewpoint may be felt in the Office of War Information. The senators felt that OWI has pursued too timorous a

Four Lee County Farm Boys Among Show Exhibitors

Four Lee county farm boys were among the exhibitors from 27 Illinois counties at the fourth annual Chicago Junior market hog show and sale, held at the Chicago stock yards on Sept. 30. The show was sponsored by the Union Stock Yard & Transit Company, operators of the Chicago market, in cooperation with 4-H and F. F. A. leaders. The entries consisted of 510 top quality market hogs, exhibited by 138 4-H and F. F. A. boys and girls.

The hogs were shown in three divisions, consisting of individual entries, pens of three and pens of five; and there were three weight classes in each division. The light-weight class was for hogs weighing from 200 to 220 pounds, the middle weight class for entries weighing from 220 to 240 pounds, and the heavy weight class for those weighing 240 to 270 pounds.

The exhibitors from Lee county were Donald Clayton, 18 years old of Ashton; Ralph Leffelman, 17, of Sublette; Ralph W. Pomeroy, 16, of Amboy; and Roland Stenzel, 17, of Sublette.

Leffelman ranks well. Leffelman was among the high ranking prize winners. He exhibited a pen of three Chester White hogs in the light weight class that placed third in a field of 50 entries, and his entry in the single barrow class of the same weight was fourth in a class of 33.

The purpose of the event was to encourage farm youngsters to raise market hogs of desirable type and finish and to acquaint them with open marketing procedure. Packer buyers on the Chicago market acted as judges. Following the judging the top three winners in each of the nine classes were sold at auction, a total of 11 head. They averaged 233 pounds each and brought an average price of $17.03 per cwt. The champion individual barrow of the show sold at 50 cents a pound and weighed 220 pounds. He was a Berkshire-Poland China crossbred, exhibited by Herman Oest, an 18-year-old McHenry county 4-H club member.

Green Will Review State's War Effort

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Gov. Dwight H. Green will review and stimulate Illinois' war efforts in a series of regional meetings to be held this month under direction of the Illinois War Council, of which the governor is chairman.

The meetings will be held in nine key cities of the regions into which the War Council has divided the state for efficient operating purposes, it was announced today by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, executive director.

On the same days that the public meetings are held, with Gov. Green speaking at each of them, regional conferences of zone, region, county and local civilian defense directors will be held.

Three meetings will be held in each of three weeks under the following schedule:

Region 1, Elgin, Oct. 12; Region 2, Rockford, Oct. 13; Region 3, Bloomington, Oct. 14.

Region 4, Galesburg, Oct. 19; Region 5, Decatur, Oct. 20; Region 6, Jacksonville, Oct. 21.

Region 9, Carbondale, Oct. 25; Region 7, Centralia, Oct. 26; Region 8, East St. Louis, Oct. 27.

"The primary purpose of these regional conferences and war rallies," Gen. Parker said, "will be to review and intensify Illinois' civilian war effort, to stimulate enlistments in the Women's Army Corps, and to inspire citizens and members of local war councils to sustain their efforts in meeting the vital needs of the home front."

The civilian defense conferences will be held mornings. Gov. Green will speak in the afternoon after a parade in which there will be army and civilian participation. There also will be a display of modern weapons of war.

The governor's speeches will be made outdoors except in event of inclement weather. Arrangements have been made to hold indoor meetings if necessary.

Errand for Q-74

By Malcolm Taylor

COPYRIGHT, 1943, MHA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Capt. Raymond Imhof, Q-74, U. S. Army Intelligence, has been assigned to follow low-level flight of Enzeli, Q-49, leading to certain important information which Enzeli has been unable to bring out of Germany. The plane from which Imhof was to parachute into enemy territory is forced down over the Moselle. He and RAF Pilot Officer Danforth escape unhurt.

IMHOF'S PILOT

CHAPTER VIII

THE Intelligence Officer, coldly considering only what would advantage his mission, wanted to get his pilot much farther from the plane before they parted. Moreover, Danforth's eyes would be useful on the route to Coblenz.

But Imhof was not merely an Intelligence Officer. Even if it had been to the advantage of his mission, he would not have been willing to cut Danforth adrift like this. The flight had drawn him to the pilot. He admired and liked him.

Imhof intended to give Danforth a flying start on whatever run for the frontier he might be able to manage. That required, among other things, a change of clothes and some money.

"You're notumbering me," Imhof continued, as Danforth seemed reluctant. "On the contrary, you've got good eyes in the dark and I need them."

Danforth yielded and they set out, following the road in the direction of Coblenz. They moved cautiously along, water still dripping from their clothes and squelching in their shoes.

Walking faster as they gained confidence but still remaining on the alert, they rounded the bend in the river, passed Winnigen on the other side, and came to a second bend. Imhof now left the road and descended the river bank. Lay was but a short distance ahead and he had decided to by-pass it. There would certainly be an air raid post there on the alert.

At the water's edge Danforth thumbed at the river inquiringly. "Why didn't I peel off?" he groaned in protest when Imhof nodded.

Nevertheless he preceded Imhof in, and softly wading up to their shoulders they drifted quietly downstream past Lay, aiding the current with their hands and feet.

When they crawled out and regained the road they were chilled to the bone.

THE path from Lay presently brought them to one of the small roads that intersect the plateau and they turned in the direction of Coblenz.

Presently the road hooked sharply right and plunged down hill. The ground fell away sharply and through the trees they could glimpse the fires in the city.

Imhof did not take the road downhill to Coblenz. Instead, following a path that skirted the edge of the high ground, he pushed on through the woods with Danforth till they reached a somewhat tumbledown, one-story building, long like a shed or carriage-house, and showing a large chimney. It was an abandoned smithy. The entrance, wide enough for two vehicles to enter at once, was doorless.

Imhof entered, strode to the chimney, bent down, ran his hands over the sides and back of the hearth, poked in the debris of the long-cold forge, even thrust an investigator arm up the chimney flue. He grunted, then turned to Danforth, who had halted outside.

"Come along in," Imhof bade.

Danforth entered. The sky glow, coming in through the wide entrance and reflecting from the dirty but whitewashed walls, made the place much less dark than it seemed from the outside.

He and Imhof could see one another's faces.

"Come on," bade Imhof, scraping soot together into a pile. "Get your clothes off."

DANFORTH looked at Imhof, eyes wide, lips parted, as if in doubt whether he had heard aright.

"You mean—get undressed?" he said incredulously. "You can't go into Coblenz wearing that uniform as it is," Imhof replied, still busily amassing soot. "You'd be pinched in half a block. We'll get you some other clothes later. But meanwhile we've got to mess your uniform up with soot so it's unrecognizable. Take it off."

"But I can't do that!" Danforth stammered.

"Why not?" Imhof demanded in surprise.

Danforth gazed at him miserably, making no answer. "What's the matter?" said Imhof. "Are you allergic to soot or something? We've got to mess up your uniform. It won't be very nice to wear," he admitted, "but it won't be for long. We'll try and keep the inside clean. Come on!" he urged. "We haven't got time to burn. Get your clothes off."

Danforth slowly undid his tunic, each button more reluctantly, started to remove the garment, stopped, looked unhappily at Imhof and stammered:

"T-t-trousers, too?" "Good Lord!" Imhof exploded impatiently. "Don't be a fool—acting like a bashful girl."

"B-b-but—but I—I—"

"Let's have that tunic," Imhof interrupted, his patience at an end. He reached out, whirled Danforth around and jerked the garment off its protesting owner.

The sudden action threw Danforth off his balance. When he caught it again his shirt, tunicless form was outlined in profile against the open doorway, full in the glow from outside.

Imhof gaped.

Trim and slender as was that silhouette, yet without the tunic no make-up was possible.

Danforth was a girl!

DIXON CHAPTER D. A. R. OPEN THEIR SEASON WITH MUSICAL AT MOSS HOME

About 40 members of the Daughters of the American Revolution gathered at the home of Mrs. Z. W. Moss Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for the first meeting of the society for the new year. Mrs. Moss was assisted by Mes. A. F. Moore, W. T. Greig, and Miss Ada Decker.

A short business session conducted by the regent, Mrs. Grover Moss, was followed by the program chairman, Mrs. Theo. J. Goe, presenting Mrs. Richard Joslyn, Mrs. F. N. Lundholm and Lester A. Somers, music instructor in the Polo high school, who presented an enjoyable program.

Mrs. Lundholm, accompanied by Mrs. Joslyn, presented, "Oh, How Delightful the Morning" (Reynolds), "Have You Seen a White Lily Grow?" and "Dance, Oh Dance Fairest Maiden" (Durante).

Mrs. Joslyn presented a piano solo, the First Movement of Sonata in C by Beethoven. It is called the Van Wabstein Sonata.

This Count Von Wobstein was a friend and patron of Beethoven, and a student of philosophy and was especially interested in the Northern Lights. It is said that their greatest display occurred on the night of his assassination.

Beethoven has tried to portray in this sonata, the brilliance of the northern lights of that night.

A group of solos by Mrs. Somers, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Hummell of Polo included "Caprice Viennois," "Gypsy Airs" and "Kol Nidrei."

The second group of songs by Mrs. Lundholm with Mrs. Joslyn at the piano were "Prelude from the Cycle of Life," "Cloths of Heaven," "The Bud" and "At the Well."

Mrs. White of Polo and Mrs. Goe poured at the tea table following the musical program.

108 Sport Writers Pick Notre Dame as Nation's Best Team

Michigan Second in AP Poll; News from Col- lege Grid Camps

New York, Oct. 5—(AP)—If you are trying to figure out the winner of Saturday's football clash between Notre Dame and Michigan you might want to take the advice of 108 of the nation's sports writers who list the Irish as the country's best and Michigan second.

The same experts also tried to help you decide who is going to win the Navy-Duke scuffle at Baltimore the same evening by placing the Middles in fourth place on the first Associated Press poll of the young season at the Blue Devils in fifth. Army grabbed the third rung.

Fifty-three of the voters rated the Irish, winners of both their games to date with top-sided scores, as the No. 1 outfit while 36 decided that the Wolverines were the best.

Ten points were given for each first place vote in the balloting, with nine awarded for second and so on down the list.

The leading eleven with total points (first place votes in parentheses):

Notre Dame (53)	977
Michigan (36)	880
Army (41)	631
Navy (3)	616
Duke (4)	575
Penn (1)	434
Purdue (2)	392
Iowa Pre-flight (2)	251
Minnesota (1)	237
Southern California	179
Second team: Southwestern 123.
Great Lakes 112, Memphis Naval Air Technicians 95, Dartmouth 59, Del Monte Pre-flight (2) 57, March Field 25, Louisiana State 24, Ohio State 23, Northwestern 18, College of Pacific 17.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Chicago, Oct. 5—(AP)—Skip- ping across the chalk lines... Get out the adjectives, boys!... They're calling Bill Daley, Michigan's V-12 fullback, "Battering Bill," "Banging Bill," and "Block-Buster III"... Might add he soon will become "Barnacle Bill"... Daley has averaged 7.2 yards in 52 times with the ball, and his 65-yard touchdown run against Western Michigan was the longest Wolverine scoring dash in two seasons... He sprinted 61 against Northwestern... Notre Dame's Angelo Bertelli, who has completed 9 of 11 passes in two games, and Daley should put on quite a show for the estimated 85,000 spectators at Ann Arbor Saturday...

Francis J. Powers, who gets around for the Chicago Daily News, reports that coach Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech tabs Notre Dame as 30 per cent better than last year... "They run the T with a lot more smoothness and deception," Alexander relayed... Worryman Frank Leahy said he was "scared" before the Irish met Pittsburgh... His team won 41-0... Leahy said "we will lose" before the Irish played Georgia Tech... Hi steam won 55-13... Leahy now says "I don't see how we can beat a team like Michigan"...

Calls Purdue 'T'

Ray Eliot calls Purdue "the Illinois variety" and his own 1943 Illinois squad "the disappearing Illinois"... Tony Butkovich, a regular for Eliot last year and now a riveter for the Boilermakers, scored four touchdowns against Illinois last week—matching the season's total production by the entire Purdue team of 1942...

Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern recently got a letter from a prep footballer... The youngster said he and his teammates had read Waldorf's new grid book and had found it very valuable... As an afterthought, he added: "We use the same system you use at Northwestern... We have won one game in the last ten"... Waldorf was highly pleased with his team's showing against Michigan, remarking that "our ground game clocked better than at any time last year"... One of the Wolverines' weaknesses is shortage of reserves for the line... Tackle Merv Pregulman, guard John Gallagher and center Fred Neuge were required to play the full 60 minutes against Northwestern...

Halfback Johnny Ruran and guard Steve Enich of Marquette are close pals and usually can be found jabbering to each other in Croatian and Serbian... During the school's recent game with Purdue, Ruran and Enich were surprised when five Boilermakers joined in the conversation... Twenty-five freshmen on the Ohio State squad played on city, county or district championship teams in high school... The Buckeyes' only "lend-lease" player is Lee Cunningham, a Navy V-5 student, who won his varsity letter at Michigan in 1941...

Columbus Only 2 Games Away from 3rd Title

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 5—(AP)—The Columbus Red Birds stand today only two games removed from their third straight "little world series" title, thanks largely to a couple of ration-conscious hurlers.

The Birds (AA), defeated the Syracuse Chiefs (IL) last night 5-2, behind south-paw Ervin (Preacher) Roe's six-hit twirling. Ted Wilks, in a somewhat more polished performance, shut out Syracuse with a half-dozen blows in the opening contest.

Yankees and Cards Square Off for '43 Baseball 'Serious'

Baseball Writers Are Divided in Predictions of Outcome

Editor's Note: The story of today's world series game in Yankee Stadium, New York City, up to the time of going to press, will be found on page 6.

By SID FEDER

New York, Oct. 4—(AP)—The New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals and some 70,000 just-plain-fans moved in on Yankee Stadium today for the start of a world series that was as close as butter on your bread to everyone except the gambling guys betting on the brawl.

Spud Chandler, the ex-Georgia footballer and lately hottest pitcher in the American league, was a top-sided 5 to 8½ choice to beat Lefty Max Lanier in the opening shindig.

But while the gambling guys put the Yankees as the team on a 5 to 7½ pedestal, the shortest price they've been in more than a decade, just about everyone else (including the hundreds still looking for series tickets and a place to sleep) were making the return match strictly a case of "you pays your money and you takes your choice."

From all angles it was a hair-pulling "rattle" between the speed and all-around hitting of the "sweethearts of St. Lou" against the noted pitching edge and the extra base blasting of the Bombers.

The crystal ball was popping up with almost a guarantee that all records for series financial jackpots would get the spot-remover treatment for the opening game today. The annual tea-party was shooting at the 69,902 "high" mark hit by the Cards and the Yankees in their Sunday game here a year ago.

Lanier Steadier?

The choice of Lefty Lanier, with a record of 15 wins against seven losses for the just-concluded campaign still had the quizz contest cooking on the front burners right up to the time the barrier was sprung.

The National League Cheering & Chouder society insisted Manager Billy Southworth named Lefty Lanier as his first flinger because he's been steadier lately than Mort Cooper, the Cards' 21-game winner, and because Mort's been straightening out a shaky soup-bone.

On the other hand, American leaguers, always grabbing at an "angle," insist that Cooper's wailing wing isn't nearly as woolf as it's cracked up to be, and the only reason Lanier became the fair-haired finger for game No. 1 was because neither Billy the Kid nor Moanin' Mort wanted any part of Chandler, whose earned-run average for the just concluded campaign is the lowest in two decades in the junior loop.

The two teams play the first three games here, then shift to St. Louis.

SERIES EXPERTING

New York, Oct. 5—(AP)—The world series is an open book to the sports scribes, but opinion is about evenly divided on how to read it.

Most of the experts here to cover the opening of the diamond classic today agreed that the Yankees and Cardinals would need from five to seven games to reach a decision, but beyond that it was every man for himself.

If there was any trend in the selections, it was that writers who have watched the American league most of the season favored the Cardinals while those in the National league backed the Yankees.

This probably meant that neither club looked as good this year as the ones which won the championships in 1942.

Here is a sampling of the scribes' viewpoints:

Sid Mercer, New York Journal-American: Yankees in six games.

John Carmichael, Chicago Daily News: Six games, all right, but I like the Cards.

Jud Bailey, Associated Press: The Cardinals to repeat.

Sid Feder, Associated Press: The Yankees in five on hotter pitching.

John Drohach, Boston Traveller: I'm switching from last year. The Yankees in five on power.

Joe Williams, New York World-Telegram: The Yankees in five or six.

Ed Bang, Cleveland News: Six games—the Cards.

Irving Vaughn, Chicago Tribune: I'm hedging in favor of the Yankees.

Gordon Cobbledick, Cleveland Plain Dealer: The Cards have so much edge I like 'em in three straight, if necessary.

Charles Dunkley, Associated Press: The Cards are too fast; should do it in six games.

Bill Corum, New York Journal-American: The Cards might even do it in four.

Tom Meany, New York PM: The Cards in six; they have more ways of scoring than the Yankees.

Dan Parker, New York Daily Mirror: Yankees in six.

Whitney Martin, Associated Press: The Cards, because they haven't gone down as far as the Yankees.

Hugh Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press: Yankees—six games.

Jack Cuddy, United Press: St. Louis will do it in seven.

Caswell Adams, International News Service: Yankees in six.

News Service: Yankees in six.

Bill Brandt, press manager of the National league: Our fellows are too good for 'em.

Earl Hilligan, American league press chief: Well, it'll go at least four games—provided the Cards show up.

Herb Simmons, Chicago Times: Yankees in six.

Roy Stockton, St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Cardinals in six, naturally.

Bob French, Toledo (O.) Blade: The Yankees—six games.

Martin Haley, St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Who but St. Louis? Six games.

Branch Rickey and Chuck Dressen sat together at the Garden fights last night—which can be interpreted any way you please... But don't expect any announcement from Rickey about Leo Durocher's status as Dodger manager until the series future has died down... Latest item on the unconfirmed report market is that Sid Luckman has signed up with the armed forces and several other Bears are about to leave Chicago... Looking over the week-end results, Prez Jack Mara of the grid Giants announced: "We scored four touchdowns. Eshmont made two and Principle two"... The sad part of it, to Jack, is that Eshmont is playing for Del Monte pre-flight and Principle for the Sampson naval station... Bobby Ruffin's victory over Beau Jack reminded some of the more literate fight followers of Harry Markson's favorite scrambled quote: "Punches roll off him like a duck takes to water."

Funeral Services for Mrs. George Taylor

Funeral services for Mrs. George Taylor of Bradford were held Tuesday afternoon at the Walnut Christian church. The services in Walnut were preceded by a prayer service at the Taylor home in Bradford in charge of Rev. E. V. Hallock, pastor of the Walnut church. The services in Walnut were in charge of Rev. C. P. Karriker of Rockford, formerly of Manlius, assisted by Rev. Hallock. The hymns, "In the Garden" and "Good Night and Good Morning" were sung by John Foss, Jr., the piano accompaniment being played by Mrs. John Foss, Jr. Interment was in Oakwood cemetery at Dixon.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful and the church was filled to overflowing with friends from Bradford, Manlius, Dixon and Walnut.

Neighborhood Club

The Neighborhood club met at the home of Mrs. Lee Buzzard on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Tony Brandenburg assisting. Fifteen members answered roll call with "My First Day at School." Mrs. Ina Keigwin led the business meeting and one new member, Mrs. John Gerdes was taken into the club. The afternoon was spent socially and refreshments were served. Guests were Mrs. Dave Buzzard, Mrs. Carl Wise and Mrs. Raymond Buzzard.

Birthday Surprise

Mrs. Lizzie Hasenager was pleasantly surprised on Thursday afternoon when a group of friends dropped in to help her celebrate her 76th birthday. The afternoon was spent in playing bingo with high prize won by Mrs. J. F. Winger and consolation by Miss Florence Bodine. A scrambled lunch was served and Mrs. Hasenager received many nice cards and gifts. Those present were Miss Verna Larson of Rockford, Mrs. George Buckner, Miss Bodine, Mrs. Carl Gustafson, Mrs. Frank Wolfe, Miss Rosiland Wise, Mrs. Merrill Langford, Mrs. Fred Burkley, Mrs. Emma Fordham, Mrs. O. C. Nussle, Miss Carrie Hamerle, Mrs. Joe La Roach, Mrs. Winger, Mrs. Dorothea Mae Warling, Mrs. Everett Larson and Mrs. Frank Bullington.

Attend Funeral

Those from the Red Oak community who attended the funeral rites for John Baumgartner which were held in Mendota on Thursday afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baumgartner, Mrs. Millie Gonigam, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hoge, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baumgartner, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Albright, E. C. Baumgartner, Mrs. Lizzie Albrecht, Mrs. Mary Myer and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Baumgartner. Rev. E. M. Diener of the Red Oak Evangelical church, was in charge of the services.

Pastor Transferred

Rev. E. M. Diener, pastor of the Red Oak Evangelical church for several years, has been transferred to the pastorate of the Evangelical church at Washington, Illinois. The vacancy at that church occurred when the pastor passed away several weeks ago. Rev. Diener will take charge in Washington on November 1. The appointment for the Red Oak church has not been announced.

Bridge Hostess

Mrs. Marvin Broer was hostess to the S. V. club on Thursday evening, two tables playing. High prize was won by Mrs. Greta Johnson and consolation by Mrs. Raymond Peach. Guests were Mrs. Peach and Mrs. Francis Lowrey. Refreshments were served.

Walnut Briefs

Richard Griebel and Donald Waterhouse are spending a few days in Detroit, Mich., with Richard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Griebel, Mrs. Wesley Peach left Saturday to spend two weeks with her sister, Mrs. Griebel at Detroit.

Misses Mary, Amanda and Laura Hoffman attended the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Stephen Hoffman in Dixon on Wednesday. Pvt. Arden Noble returned to Camp Livingston, La. on Friday morning after a week's visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Noble, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kasten and daughter Susan M. are spending several days in Chicago. Mrs. Cleola Trabelot and Mrs. Creed Sidebottom were Thursday morning shoppers in Princeton.

A LETTER TO ALVIN E. DODD OF NEW YORK AND GRAND DETOUR

29th July, 1943
Alvin E. Dodd, Esq.,
The American Management Association,
330 West 42nd Street,
New York City, U. S. A.
Dear Mr. Dodd,

At last I am able to settle down to answer your warm and friendly letter of the 21st of January. I know this is a tremendous gap of time but these days are so desperately short of every type of personnel, and practically everybody one employs is doing two or three other jobs and working late into the night, that it is not quite so strange as would no doubt appear in your country.

Yes, SCOPE has turned out a wonderful success and we are fast approaching the time when we will not be able to accept any more readers or advertisers. This is due to the fact that, like all publishers, we are only entitled to use 10% of the paper that we were using in 1939. SCOPE is appealing to the top executives in this country who have never had an opportunity of enjoying the English counterpart of such magnificent U. S. magazines as FORTUNE and a host of others that I find stimulating and refreshing. It also coincides with the growing realization that Britain must devote very much more money and effort to scientific and technical research; otherwise she will never recover her place as a great industrial exporter.

Side by side with this, of course, is the fact that organizationally and technically British industry has done an amazing job during the war—in many ways a more sensational one than that of U. S. industry because of the countless disadvantages under which we have to labour, e. g. dispersal, black-out, more acute shortage of man power, the short distance from enemy bombers, etc. The war has undoubtedly shaken up many rigid and archaic business practices which had remained unchanged since the beginning of the century.

Many people are concerned here with the aggressive statements that American manufacturers are making in their advertisements in the technical and mass-circulation papers. There is a feeling that U. S. manufacturers only want to sell their goods and are not interested in buying from the rest of the world, and this is going to lead to terrible and bitter rivalry after the war. We are doing our best to dispel this by pointing out that the American Administration has never identified itself with this narrow nationalistic policy and is basing everything on international co-operation and not international rivalry. I sincerely hope we are right.

Alas, we have had to neglect Packaging because it literally does not exist in Britain at present. It is impossible to get any sort of information as everything is down to the barest utility basis and most firms in the Packaging industry—whether cardboard, plastics, metal, machinery, etc.—have been concentrated and only allowed to make a small fraction of the kind of goods they were making in 1939. Also, the control and shortage of consumer goods here is so tight that packaging and every form of selling has long become meaningless. This was one of the reasons that forced us to discontinue SHELF APPEAL, but we naturally hope to revive it after the war, although it will take a very second place to SCOPE.

Naturally, I was very interested to learn about your friendship with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Garner at whose home my wife stayed before the war and where we had hoped to send our children. I have not had the pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. Garner but have heard much of their hospitality and generosity. I hope that after the war I will be able to meet them when I visit America.

With warm regards,
Yours sincerely,
(signed) John M. Ryan,
Editor.

HEALTHY YEAR
The year 1931 was an exceptionally healthy one in the United States and Canada, according to life insurance records, which show the lowest death rate on record for that year.

Rainier, Shasta "Erupt"
Mounts Rainier and Shasta, volcanoes in the United States, continue to emit heated vapors, evidence that their interiors still are hot.

HE ASKED FOR IT
New York—Martin Murphy strode into a Telegraph office. One hand thrust menacingly into a coat pocket, he approached a clerk and handed him a note reading: "Call the cops or I will have to shoot you. I don't want your money. I just want a jail sentence of about 10 years."
The clerk obliged. When police arrived, Murphy explained he couldn't endure the family arguments at his home and wanted peace and quiet—in a cell. Police charged him with disorderly conduct.

HEROES ARE MADE—NOT BORN

Soybean Growers May Have to Make Own Storage Bins

Faced with the greatest soybean production in the state's history coupled with scarcities in storage space, many growers will have to provide their own facilities for keeping beans.

Empty horse stalls, old oats bins, unused corn cribs or space in machinery storages may be used, says D. G. Carter, professor of farm structures, University of Illinois College of Agriculture, who points out that special attention is required to secure the same tight walls, strength in floors and framing and protection from moisture required for new bins.

A number of prefabricated wooden bins will be available from the agricultural adjustment committees. Used last year in the southern part of the state, this type of bin kept soybeans well, Carter says. Some framing lumber is obtainable at lumber yards, but farmers will need an AA-2 priority, details of which can be secured from the county war board.

If wood-framing lumber is available, floors, walls and roofs can be enclosed with non-lumber materials. Asbestos, cement, structural sheets or other rigid panel boards may be used in place of wood or steel for walls. Various wood sheathings and coverings may be found in lumber dealers' stocks. Concrete floors are excellent if built on a fill and the ground is well drained.

Several plans for movable and stationary grain bins are available at a printing cost of 10 cents each. They may be obtained from the county farm adviser or from the department of agricultural engineering, College of Agriculture, Urbana. These bins are variable in plan to accommodate from 500 to 2,000 bushels of soybeans.

Old Business Quarrel Ends in Murder Monday

Chicago, Oct. 5.—(AP)—An incident in his private office in the loop yesterday by a former business associate, police said, apparently as result of a long smoldering disagreement, the slayer surrendered to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Walter J. Habenicht, 45, office supervisor for the Connecticut Life Insurance company, was the victim and the slayer was identified by Police Capt. Thomas Duffy as J. Walter Tarky, 42, who said he formerly worked with Habenicht in another insurance firm.

Washington
 By James Thrasher
 Telegraph Special Service

Tourists have been saying for years that New York is a wonderful place to visit but they'd hate to live there. Maybe they said it about Washington, too, before the war. But no transient caller in our nation's capital has delivered himself of any such observation since then. In fact, few of them have probably said anything printable in a family newspaper, what with the crowded trains, hotels, restaurants, theaters, busses and whatever else is likely to attract more than two people at one time.

And when an out-of-towner's visit involves business with the War Production Board, his feelings are apt to take on a violent tinge. By the time he has been through the involved process of getting to see his man and getting out again, the overseas visitor is more than ready to flee the town forever and let WPB do with him as it will.

Visitors find that any WPB employee, however humble his position, is slightly less accessible than the Grand Lama of Tibet. But if they think that the time and red tape involved in getting to him is the result of inefficiency and lack of system, they're wrong.

It's all planned. And it may cheer the visitor who has been through the mill to discover that the receptionist who kept him from his quarry may have been quite as confused and frustrated as the visitor himself.

T. V. Purcell and the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Niman, on Wednesday.

Booklet Explains All
 This heartening conclusion is the result of reading a WPB booklet titled "Regulations Governing Entrance to Offices of the Board." In 14 pages of fine type it sets forth the front-door ceremonies involving the leisurely welcome of everybody from a cabinet member to a Western Union messenger onto the premises.

All the rules are different and none of them is easy. Employees, deliverymen, the press, special visitors, frequent visitors and just plain visitors, all require a different technique.

Suppose you are a visitor (the one defined in section 3.06, not the special one referred to in section 10.01). If the stern-faced guards at the entrance don't scare you out of the idea completely, you approach the receptionists' desk. There are lots of receptionists, all doing different jobs, but somebody will steer you right.

Having ascertained whom you wish to see and if you have an appointment, the receptionist will then telephone the object of your quest. "If it is suggested by the employee that the visitor come to his office," says the booklet, "the receptionist shall fill out and initial a visitor's pass."

And what happens if, after you have come all the way from Muskegon, the employee is feeling out of sorts, or just forgets to make that necessary suggestion? Don't despair. "If a visitor is unable to secure an appointment, he will be given an exit check to permit him to leave the building."

Patience Plus Pass
 If, however, you do receive a cordial invitation, the receptionist writes down the date, your name and address, your quarry's name and room number, and the number of the badge you are going to get. You then sign the pass, and get the original and the pink copy. Don't pay any attention to the white and yellow copies. You also get your badge—provided your man is ready to see you.

Of course, if you try to carry out anything that you didn't carry in, or stay more than seven hours, or don't get your pass signed by the interviewer, or wander in a daze exceeding 30 minutes that isn't accounted for on your pass, you've got a lot of explaining to do with the gen-darmes at the door. And if they don't like your explanation—well, even the booklet doesn't say what happens.

If you're going to be in and out of a WPB building for several days you can, with WPB's approval, get a special visitor's pass. This is issued if the Board thinks its work will be "expedited and benefited by allowing the prospective special visitor access frequently and without undue delay."

But don't think that the avoidance of "undue delay" is the regular thing, or a consummation devoutly to be wished. Not at all. A White House messenger is the only visitor who the booklet specifies is to be allowed to "proceed without delay." The rest of you guys can just take WPB's own sweet time.

Maybe you should have just written a letter, after all.

Ogle County Farm Bureau News Notes

A joint meeting of the rural youth clubs of Ogle county, sponsored by the Farm Bureau and Home Bureau has been planned by a committee of the rural youth people to be held at the Mt. Morris town hall Thursday evening, Oct. 14. Frank F. Gingrich formerly young people's activities director of the Illinois Agricultural Association was asked to speak and there will be reports of outgoing officers, refreshments and square dancing.

These young people's groups according to D. E. Warren, Farm Advisor, have been carrying on regular monthly club meetings for several years. Their programs he said include music, recreation and discussion. Discussion topics chosen for the programs of the next six months are centered principally around personality development. They will include: "Travel etiquette," "Flag etiquette," "Characteristics of desirable friends," "Things I wish people wouldn't do," "Marriage in war time," "Income tax information."

Newly elected officers of the Ogle Rural Youth club are: Warren Blum, president; Melvin Reinert, vice president; Helen Cavanaugh, secretary. For the Mount Morris Country Youth club they are: Raymond Nichols, president; James Baker, vice president; Donald Horst, secretary; Arlene Zumdahl, reporter.

Camp Grant May Help Harvest Ogle Co. Hemp

Negotiations to have German prisoners of war stationed at Camp Grant harvest the hemp crop in Ogle county were started at a meeting at Oregon yesterday afternoon.

While all arrangements have not been completed, it was indicated a number of the young prisoners will be assigned to the task of harvesting hemp, being grown in this area for the first time this year.

Army officials yesterday announced the removal of more than 300 war prisoners to Benton Harbor, where they will help process the huge hemp crop in southwestern Michigan. The prisoners are to be quartered in a naval reserve armory and will be taken to work each day in buses.

The prisoners, who are under guard at all times, are paid 80 cents a day for their labor. The person or firm employing them pays the prevailing wage rate, with the difference going to the government to cover the cost of caring for the prisoner.

TODAY on the HOME FRONT

by JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, Oct. 5.—(AP)—"Ouch!" was the first general reaction to the treasury's suggested program for boosting the federal income tax.

But the second reaction appeared to be: "Congress won't go for it."

The treasury suggestions are significant primarily as a standard of comparison as congress works on a new tax bill, which may wind up with no particular resemblance to the treasury's plan except for one thing: Taxes will be higher.

Some of the income tax suggestions to which congress undoubtedly will give serious consideration are:

1. A more complete system of withholding taxes from paychecks.
2. Elimination of the Victory tax as a separate levy.
3. Amendment of the 1943 Victory tax to permit everyone to use the postwar credit immediately.
4. Elimination of the earned income credit in figuring normal income tax.

As to the suggested lowering of exemptions for married couples and increasing of surtax rates, congress will, as usual, write its own ticket.

The treasury didn't go into details about extending the withholding deduction from wages and salaries except to say it should "collect substantially the full liability with respect to the highest salary and wage brackets." This would eliminate a lot of declarations of estimated tax which at present are required of about one in every three taxpayers in addition to their regular final yearly returns.

Under the present system, the withholding deduction is designed to cover single persons with wages and salaries up to $2,700 a year and married couples up to $3,500. Those in higher brackets must file declarations even if their income is entirely from regular wages and salaries.

One part of the treasury program which appears certain to be popular is the proposal to do away with the Victory tax, with its different set of exemptions and rates and its complicated system of postwar and current credits. Its elimination, the treasury estimates, wouldn't relieve 9 million hard-pressed families from tax on their incomes—revenue which the treasury proposes to make up through increased surtaxes.

The house ways and means committee already has approved the plan to give every taxpayer immediately the maximum credit provided for the Victory tax for 1943, regardless of the originally retired purchases of war bonds or payment of life insurance premiums and old debts.
